

DOWN WENT MERCURY

"Partly cloudy and continued cold," is the weather programme for today according to the deductions made by Forecaster Hyatt. The storm that was promised blew itself out after a light fall of snow yesterday morning, and the afternoon was bright and clear with a falling thermometer. The high record yesterday was 51 degrees; low, 21 degrees. At other points the markings were:

Denver	45	24
Grand Junction	40	23
Helena	40	23
Bozeman	40	23
Medford	40	23
Winemucca	40	23

CITY AND NEIGHBORHOOD

Yesterday's bank closings amounted to $1,011,212, as against $1,014,344 for the corresponding day of last year.

The Twelfth Ward ministers will give a delightful entertainment in the Twelfth ward annex hall this evening. A strong program is announced.

Thomas Killen, train dispatcher for the Rio Grande at Salt Lake City, was killed Monday. His brother James of this city returned home today from attendance upon the funeral.

Another case of smallpox was reported to the health office yesterday. The patient is a man by the name of Harrington and 41 years of age. He was taken to the isolation hospital from a room in the Globe building.

A comprehensive talk on the Agricultural college was made by President Kerr yesterday afternoon at the regular weekly meeting of the Salt Lake school principals. Also Edna Powers, principal of the Riverside school, spoke entertainingly on "The School Garden."

The work of remodeling the north room of the Constitution building for the McGuffin banking house and the Revere real estate office was begun yesterday. Fixtures to cost $10,000 are to be installed in the place. The interior is being decorated and hand-painted in a modern plate glass front will be put in.

An adjourned session of the State Board of Land Commissioners was held yesterday for the purpose of attending to a few matters of business, which it was found impossible to pass upon the day before. The routine matter is piling up so fast that the board has been unable to dispose of the month's accumulations for several sessions.

It has developed that one of the meanest things done by J. C. Schuckers, the ex-convict who skipped out after passing a number of worthless checks, was to borrow the sum of $100 from his wife's sister, money which the young woman gave up to pay the expenses of his course of study. Former fellow-prisoners of Schuckers state that he was a morose fiend, which partially accounts for his rank betrayal of the friends who tried to help him to start life anew.

The Rev. Dr. H. J. Talbot, who was recently appointed superintendent of missions of the Methodist Episcopal church for the State of Utah, arrived in the city yesterday to take up his new duties. He will be in charge of the general oversight of all the Methodist churches and Sunday-schools in this State. Dr. Talbot has been the pastor of the First Methodist church at Portland, Ore., for the last two and a half years. The doctor, with his family, will live at 641 Third street.

JUVENILES TO BE TRIED IN JUDGE'S CHAMBERS

Judge Diehl and County Attorney Westcott brought themselves yesterday to the last Legislature passed a law requiring juvenile offenders to be tried either in the Judge's chambers or in the courtroom two hours before or after the trial of older persons. This feature of the law had been entirely overlooked, and young and old have been arraigned and tried in the same room at the same time. As soon as attention was called to the requirement of the statute the practice was amended, and George Joseph, Edna Knox and Clair Chequer were arraigned for burglary in the court's private office. Their parents being absent, the trial was not taken and the cases were continued until today. Judge Diehl says that, in his opinion, the Legislature did not go far enough and should have established a juvenile court entirely separate and apart from the regular criminal court. If such a court were now in existence it would have the bulk of the criminal business of the city at present.

GREAT DRUG HOUSE HAS CHANGED HANDS

W. A. Nelden and John Judson Sell Out to Eastern Parties After a Brilliant Business Career of Many Years' Standing.

Yesterday the Nelden-Judson Drug company, for many years one of the largest and most substantial wholesale business institutions of the city, passed into the hands of E. C. Smith and L. M. Smith of St. Joseph, Mo., members of the C. D. Smith Drug company, one of the best-known firms in the Missouri river district. The business will be conducted under the old firm name and at the old stand, 62-65 South West Temple street. The institution is a landmark in the business history of the West, and at present carries the largest stock and does the largest wholesale business of any drug firm west of the Missouri river.

From a comparatively small beginning in 1881, when the firm of Roberts & Nelden was organized and the business was conducted in the store now occupied by Nicol & Crabbe on South Main street, the business has grown to its present proportions, requiring first the removal to the building now occupied by the J. H. Lanyon company, and later to the building where the business is now conducted. That was in 1895, when half of the three-story building was ample for the use of the firm. Since that time, however, the business of the firm has increased so rapidly that now the entire three-story and basement building, with an area of 100 by fifty feet, and two large warehouses in the rear are none too ample.

In 1892 Mr. Nelden purchased the interest of Bolivar Roberts, and in 1893 the new firm was incorporated under the name of the Nelden-Judson Drug company, with John J. Judson of this city and E. C. Smith of St. Joe the other members of the firm.

Ever since coming to Salt Lake Mr. Nelden has been identified with the progress of the city and is one of the best-known business men in the intermountain country. He was the last president of the Chamber of Commerce, was one of the commissioners of the Pioneer Jubilee, built the Salt Palace and bicycle track, which has been one of the chief attractions of the city since its completion. He has been one of the most active members of the Board of Education, acting in the capacity of president of that body for two years. Mr. Nelden was also the first president of the Commercial club and is now one of its influential members. During the years in which he has been engaged in business here he has been very active in the establishment of sixty drug stores in the intermountain country.

Neither Mr. Nelden nor his partner, Mr. Judson, has decided what he will do in the future, but both will be at the store for a time settling up affairs and lending assistance to the new members of the firm. Both are popular among their business associates and will have the good wishes of all their friends in their future undertakings.

JURY FREES PORTER FROM MURDER CHARGE

Coroner's Inquest on Death of Benjamin R. Haddock Results in the Liberation of George Porter, the Son-in-Law.

After hearing the testimony of all the witnesses who could throw any light on the death of Benjamin R. Haddock, the coroner's jury found yesterday afternoon that the deceased came to his death at Salt Lake City, Utah, on the 25th day of February, 1904, and was caused in our judgment by a nervous shock and fracture of the skull occasioned by a fall, for which we believe no man was criminally responsible.

George Porter, the son-in-law of the dead man, who had been held for causing his death, was set at liberty by Coroner Clark. He shook hands with the three jurors and the Coroner, expressing his gratitude in a broken voice.

The verdict was endorsed by all who heard the testimony, for the evidence tended to show that the fight between Porter and Haddock was provoked by the latter. The inquest failed to show the cause of the man's death. Dr. Odell, assisting County Physician, testified that he had been unable to find any pathological condition or injury of a mortal nature. The only theory he could offer was that death was due to a nervous shock accompanying the fracture of the skull. This theory was adopted by the jury for want of a more convincing explanation.

G. H. Cutting, J. S. Stevens and E. B. Jeremy were sworn as jurors. County Attorney Westcott acted as counsel for the county and A. B. Edler represented the defendant, Mrs. Haddock. The dead man's death was the first witness examined. She said that Porter and Haddock were struggling when she heard the loud crash. She ran to her husband's assistance and put her knee on Porter's neck. Haddock pulled her away. When Haddock fell, she did not strike anything hard with the back of her head. Mrs. Haddock said her husband had been beaten by attacks of pain in the chest, which sometimes caused unconsciousness.

MRS. PORTER'S STORY.

Mrs. Porter, wife of the prisoner and daughter of the dead man, said:

"We were packing and he wanted to take a guitar. I urged him not to take it. He said that if he did not take it, he would smash it. He hit me accidentally with it. 'Pa' came in and asked what was the trouble and I told him. They struggled and went down together. 'Pa' and George went over to the house and I followed them. I saw them go down and then my uncle came up and asked what was the matter. I told him it was only an accident. Then father hit George again. I didn't see father after he went in."

John Haddock, the 16-year-old son of the deceased, and Mary, his 15-year-old daughter, both testified that Haddock struck Porter before Porter climbed over the fence. They said that their father seemed to be in a fight with Porter and did not complain until about fifteen minutes before he died, when he complained of terrible pains in his body, such as had had before. The little girl described the fight and said that "George was down and was out on his head."

Mrs. Haddock's sister, Mrs. Currier, was with Haddock before he died. She said that he seemed all right and told her that "George didn't hurt me, but I got two or three good licks at him."

In the afternoon Robert Williams, Mrs. Haddock's father, said that he had been talking and joking after his fight with Porter. Then he complained that the old man was coming back in his chest and back.

"He fell into my arms," said the witness, "and I placed him on the ground. His attacks before. I think they were caused by gas around the heart. He told me he was sorry and I told him that Porter and he had been together."

Dr. Odell related the developments at the autopsy. He said that all the organs were normal. The fracture in the skull was very slight and not sufficient to cause death. There was no contusion on the skin above and no injury to the brain below. The only theory he could offer was that death was caused by the shock following the fracture, but he admitted that the symptoms were disconnected and that he could form no reliable diagnosis.

The jury was out about 10 minutes and brought in the verdict given above.
